

NOT JUST A PRETTY FACE: Poker ambassador Caitlin Fox.

More than just a poker face

Rick Marais
rickm@caxton.co.za

EMPERORS Palace will host the first World Poker Tournament in South Africa from 19 to 26 October.

Popular Randburg resident Caitlin Fox has been chosen as the female ambassador for this year's tournament.

She gained acclaim when she started presenting e.tv's children show Craz-e.

When asked what attracted her to poker she said, "With all the TV and press coverage you see, you become fascinated by it all.

"The poker community is so welcoming, and you become part of a huge family."

Fox encouraged all women with an interest in Texas Hold 'Em poker to become involved.

She said, "It's not easy in a male-dominated sport. Many people are keen to help, so take all the advice you can get."

When asked if she would ever consider any other career she answered with a mischievous wink, "Every other job seems kind of boring after poker."

The event will consist of seven world-class poker tournaments.

